

I listen to Christian radio every day while drive. I am in my car at least 500 miles a week and that is a lot of radio. KLove and Airl have both touched my life. I always drive more mellow, I'm in a wonderful mood and it's nice to know there are people out there that have the same belief as I do out our Lord Jesus Christ. I personally would be impacted if radio stations like this were taken off the air. There is so much negative, sexually explicit, and political radio on all the time it's nice to have a positive change of pace. It doesn't matter wether or not you believe in a higher power I don't believe anyone can think that a "christian" radio station with a focus of positivity and faith could be anything but an asset to their community. No one is forced to listen to anything and those people who do not want to listen to christian radio don't have to. But for those of us who live by it and thrive because we know there is someone out there that is for us not against us should not be punnished but the removal of a wonderfully uplifting asset to our community.
